MANY NEW LEGISLATORS The clocks of the city chiming the hour of noon, Clork McPherson ascended to the Clerk's desk and called the House to order. Not since the Forty-fourth Congress has any hold-over Clerk, in performing a similar duty, faced so many new workers in the legislative field. The Clerk immediately proceeded to call the roll.

As Mr. Reed responded to the call his Republican friends gave a round of applause. There was a great deal of noise in the hall and it was with difficulty that the Clerk could record the responses. The candidates for the speakership wandered through the chamber and greeted their friends, while much amusement was caused by a merry conference held by Messrs, McMillin, Hatch, and Springer in the rear of the Speaker's desk. The Clerk having announced the presence of 326 members the House immediately, on motion of Mr. Holman, adjourned to meet at noon to-morrow. REED APPLAUDED.

The signal announcing that all is over has just been run up on the flagstaff. It was preceded by a buzzing, indicating that the dynamos had been set at work. Crowds of newspaper men and curious people are waiting in front of the prison-gate for the wit-nesses to come out. How Loppy died will not be known until then. He was exe-

After the persons who had witnessed the execution had signed their names to Warden Brown's certificate they came out of the Warden's office. One after the other they quickly entered hacks and drove rapidly to the depot. None of them would give any information except to say that Loppy had met a painless death, and that the execution was perfectly successful. The doctors who had made the autopsy were equally non-committal. While waiting at the depot for trains to take them to their homes they were pixed with all sorts of tors who had made the autopsy were equally non-committal. While waiting at the depot for trains to take them to their homes they were plied with all sorts of questions for the purpose of ascertaining whether the disagreeable features which were conspicuous in the execution of Smiler were repeated in the killing of Loppy. All the doctors evaded these questions, and said they had given their word not to reveal any information.

The namest that could be gotten from Warden Brown was that the execution was carried out just as at the same time of the killing of the four men in the same chair last July. SAD SCENES ABOUT THE MOUTH OF A MINE IN FRANCE.

Mothers, Wives, and Sweethearts Mourn ing Their Dend, Cheked Under-Ground by Fire-Damp-The Disaster.

Paris, December 7.—Sad scenes are being nacted at the mouth of the Puits de la Manufacture mine, belonging to the St. Etienne Colliery Company, where the explosion occurred yesterday. Wives, mo thers, and sweethearts stand about the pit's mouth weeping bitterly and mourning their dead. Here they have stood through the long, dreary night, heedless of many entreaties made to them to return to their homes. They seem to have forgotten everything save that deep in the mine below them lie the bodies of those who are dear to them. Many of those who rushed to the pit when the news of the disaster first spread have returned to their death-stricken homes reverently following the bodies of their relatives and friends that rescning parties have succeeded in taking rescuing parties have succeeded in taking from the pit.

The hope that some of the miners who had been imprisoned by the falling walls of the chambers might be still alive has been abandoned. The air in the mine is still foul and stifling, and the men who have been down in it say it would be impossible for any one to live in it any length of time. The work of removing the bodies is necessarily slow, the efforts of the rescuers being greatly hindered by immense masses of debris which encumber the passages.

Since midnight last night fifteen bodies Since midnight last night fifteen bodies have been taken from the pit. The scene when they were lifted to the surface was most heartrending. Weeping, sobbing women would cluster around the bodies, hoping yet dreading to recognize the smoke-blackened and sometimes burned taces of the dead the features of some dear one. The scene was one that has been enacted hundreds of times in the coal-fields, and yet never loses its pathetic character.

There are yet twelve bodies in the lower gallery. The rescuers are making their way as rapidly as possible toward them, reach and remove them. THE ACCIDENT.

The explosion of fire-damp occurred at non Sunday, and many of the workers were unable to escape from the mine. According to advices so far received seventy-three men perished in the pit. Immediately after the explosion dense volumes of evil-smelling smoke issued from the mine, and in a short time crowds of relatives and friends of the imprisoned workmen gathered about the entrances of the pit and prepared for the work of rescue. When the first attempt was made to rescue the imprisoned men the rescuers were THE ACCIDENT. the imprisoned men the rescuers were driven back by the foul furnes that poured from the shaft, and for nearly an hour no-thing could be done to aid the unfortunate miners in the pit. At the very outset the escuers encountered a serious obstacle, a he main gallery was found to have col apsed, thus preventing access to the im the main gallery was found to have collapsed, thus preventing access to the imprisoned men. After working several hours in relays the party of rescuers had cleared away a portion of the debris, and in a few minutes they came across the bodies of four miners. The men, although unconscious, were still alive.

While the rescuers were at work several doctors and a number of ambulances had been summoned from St. Etienne and a supply of restoratives procured, so that the promptest assistance might be given to all who should be brought from the pit alive. The speedy revival of the men rescued gave hope that the others in the pit might be saved, and this hope was strengthened when, a short time afterward, another rescuing party, which had entered the connecting pit, sent to the surface four more of the victims, all of whom were quickly restored to consciousness. The second party of rescuers, however, found that it was utterly impossible to reach the other imprisoned men, and there is no doubt that, as stated above, all of the latter succumbed to the poisonous gases that fill the chambers of the mine.

CHARGES AGAINST MR. MOSES.

He Demands an Investigation, and the Caucus Appoints a Committee. Immediately after the adjournment ye Immediately after the adjournment yesterday of the two branches of the General Assembly a joint caucus was held in the hall of the House of Delegates. The session lasted about an hour, and was, perhaps, the most interesting one held since the convening of the present Legislature.

The Democratic law-makers were called in council to investigate certain charges against Mr. W. Moses, Superintendent of the Penitentiary, and upon the demand of that gentleman, made through Senator John L. Hurt. These charges are preferred by three of the guards at the institution—Mays, Willis, and Goosley—and allege immorality on the part of the Superintendent toward the female convicts; using liquor intended for the patients in the prison hospital; discriminating in favor of his son, who was at one time employed in the institution, and not allowing over-pay to the guards.

DECLINED TO SERVE.

DECLINED TO SERVE. The charges were first heard of several days ago by members of the Legislature, when the papers containing them were quietly circulated, together with alleged documentary evidence in the shape of statements from the female convicts said to have been aggrieved. Almost immediately Senators Gordon and Jones were appointed a committee and requested to associate with them a third senator, investigate the matter, and report thereon. They selected Mr. Mushbach as the third senator, but he gave it as his opinion that enator, but he gave it as his opinion that senator, but he gave I as his opinion that the investigation would be unjust to Mr. Lynn, Mr. Moses's principal opponent before the Legislature for the superintendency of the institution. The committee, therefore, declined to serve and the matter was dropped.

IGNORE THE ALLEGATIONS. In the mean time Delegate Ryan and Senator Fairfax, Loudoun, who are pressing Mr. Lynn's claims, were approached by those who were circulating the charges, but these gentlemen ignored them entirely, and did not wish to see the documentary evidence, for, as Mr. Ryan said last night, they were not fighting on that line and did not believe the accusations. The statement of one of the women was seen by a DESPATCH reporter yesterday. It

The statement of one of the women was seen by a Disparch reporter yesterday. It is written in ink in a fair handwriting, is signed with the woman's name with an indellible blue pencil and is witnessed by Mays. This statement, as does a similar one from another woman, charges that the misconduct occurred in 1889.

Although the first committee refused to serve and the friends of Mr. Lynn, as did those of Mr. Moses's other opponents, ignored the charges, these did not cease to be pressed, and yesterday Mr. Moses went to Senator Hurt and insisted that the caucus appoint a committee to investigate the charges and put an end to the matter.

In the caucus the friends of all the other candidates for the position of Superintendent of the Penitentiary repudiated having any sympathy with or anyperintendent of the Penitentiary repudi-ated having any sympathy with or any-thing to do with the matter.

The caucus appointed the following committee from the Senate: Messrs. Mar-shall and Turner: from the House, Messrs. Magruder. Phil Brown, and Utz, and then adjourned.

This committee will meet at the peni-tentiary at 10 o'clock this morning and probe the charges to the bottom.

INDIGNASTLY DENIES.

INDIGNANTLY DENIES. Mr. Moses indignantly denies every allegation brought against him and courts the fullest investigation. All of his officers express great surprise at the charges and have testified that they put no faith in them.

Dr. Nash, Surgeon of the Penitentiary, has written a lotter in which he declares that he does not believe they have any foundation, and Mr. Cross is quoted as saying that he knows as far as it is possibis for one to know any thing about such a matter that they are untrue.

Let the Reporters In.

Immediately after the adjournment of the two houses yesterday a joint caucus was held in the hall of the House of Dele-was near the him of the Holze of Pergates.

Mr. Stratton offered the following resolution, which was laid over until the meeting of the cancus Thursday night:

Resolved, That the members of the Domocratic press be admitted to the sessions of the joint cancus of the Senate and the House of Delegates, and their reports of the proceedings of the cancus shall be submitted to the presiding officer of said caucus and shall be approved by him before publication.

The following additional nominations for county judges were then made: Rote-tourt, W. B. Simmons; Campbell; R. H. Ward; Nelson, Thomas P. Fuzpatrick;

Pulaski, Isaac Hudson The caucus then adjourned, SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. CARTER.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET. New York. December 7.—The stock marcet was a little more animated to-day than usual for the last two weeks and while displaying on the whole a firm tone in the general list the pressure brought to bear by the professionals upon a few stocks gave a rather weak character to the MOVEMENTS SMALL.

The movements in most of the list, how-ever, were like those for the past month-small and insignificant—and while there was good buying of many of the prom-nent shares, notably the Vanderbilts and nent shares, notably the Vanderbuts and the Industrials, there was special pressure made upon the Northern Pacific stocks and later upon Missouri Pacific. At the same time Union Pacific sympathized with the weakness in these shares and Pacific Mail was sold down on the loss of one of its new steamers. Northern Pacific preferred was under the hammer throughout the ertire day and its early loss was inventional the common following closely. significant, the common following closely, but it was not until the late afternoon, when Missouri Pacific was attacked with such vigor, that the general list gave evidence of being affected in any way by the pressure.

OPENING AND CLOSE FIRM.

The opening was generally at small advances over Saturday's prices, and not-withstanding the weakness in the Villards, the general list, led by the Omaha stocks (the preferred rising 1½ per cent.), rose fractionally, as a rule, and the firm-to-strong tone developed lasted well into the afternoon, though there was the usual reaction in the late trading up to the time when the early raid was resumed. More reaction in the late trading up to the time when the early raid was resumed. More activity than at any previous time of the day was then developed, and prices tumbled quickly in the stocks attacked, the rest of the list following reluctantly and slowly. The final dealings gave additional evidence that covering was the object of the attack, and a slight rally closed the market firm, with most of the list at close to opening figures. The final changes for the day were generally insignificant and about equality divided between gains and losses; but while Chicago Gas is up 1% and Comban preferred 1½, Missouri Pacific is down 2%, Northern Pacific preferred 1½, and common 1%. Sales of listed stocks, 250,000 shares; unlisted, 14,000.
